Professional Experience

After working at the Department of State, Division of Corporations from 1982 until 1986, Mr. Smith spent fourteen years at the Office of the State Comptroller, working primarily in two areas: municipal law and the investment of the assets of the Common Retirement Fund. In 2000, he transferred to the Office for Technology, where he served as a Supervising Attorney. As a Supervising Attorney, he negotiated, drafted, and managed hardware and software contracts in support of the Office for Technology's State Data Center.

In May of 2007, Mr. Smith was appointed as Assistant Deputy Director and Counsel to the Office of Cyber Security and Critical Infrastructure Coordination (CSCIC). As Assistant Deputy Director and Counsel to CSCIC, he assists in the management of the agency's large scale procurements, coordinates the agency's legislative program, serves as Co-Chair of the Multi-State Information Sharing and Analysis Center's Procurement Workgroup, and provides guidance to the agency on wide variety of subjects, from ethics to intellectual property.
